Jeffrey Youth Aids Fisherman In Distress

The fact that a Waveland youth, Leighton Jeffrey of 705 Beach Blvd, had his small boat and outboard in readiness may have saved the life of a Pass Christian fisherman early last

Fred Bourgeois, Waveland marshal and Cliff Vogt, auxiliary policemen, spotted the almost submerged fishing craft off the beach near Nicholson Ave. They sped down the beach searching for aid as the boat appeared to be sinking rapidly, luckily encountering young Jeffrey in front of his home. Vogt and Jeffrey jumped into the boat and reached the fisherman who was by then standing atop the cabin and brought him safely to shore.

After the rescue, the man explained that his boat had sprung a leak and he could not get pumps into operation. Further details are unavailable due to the fact that Marshal Bourgeois has since been hospitalized for treatment of a heart condition.

The American Telephone $4 to $3. and Telegraph Company announced on November 22, plans to introduce station-to-station calling between the United States and Vietnam which would changes. save U.S. customers an estimated $121,000 yearly.

AT&T's Long Lines Department filed the proposal with the Federal Communications Commission to become effective December 1.

Under the change, the rate for the first three minutes on a station call would be $9. Each additional minute would be $3. Person rates would remain the same, at $12 for the first three minutes, but additional minute rates would be lowered from

Tree Seedlings Due In Hancock Tuesday

A shipment of tree seedlings will be delivered in Hancock and Pearl River Counties on Tuesday, December 17, according to Area Forester Norman Coleman of the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

Personal notices will not be sent to tree recipients because of the large number of landowners who are to receive trees in this first shipment, noted Forester Coleman, Anyone who is expecting trees at this time should call the local Fire Tower at 255-7152, or write Norman Coleman, P.O. Box 345, Poplarville, Mississippi, to determine whether or not their trees are included in this shipment.

Seedlings will be delivered in Hancock County to the Hancock Tower, about three miles north of Kiln. Pearl river County deliveries will be made to the Pearl River Tower, about five miles south of Poplarville on Highway 53.

The South Vietnamese Government, which operates telephone service in that country, will introduce similar rate

More than 38,000 calls were completed between the U.S. and Vietnam last year, about four and a half times as many as in 1965. AT&T said about 90 per cent of the calls are completed from the Vietnam end, rather than from the U.S., because of the difficulty in locating servicemen to answer calls. Most of them are collect calls, the company added. Calls between the U.S. and Vietnam recently have been averaging about 140 a day, but this figure is expected to increase during the approaching holiday season. Saigon is 13

OUR OPINION

A FINE JOB WELL DONE

Although the school improvement bond failed to pass in Tuesday's election, credit is due to all those who worked many hours beyond the call of duty, towards this much

Many hours of planning went into the efforts to pass this bond for the children of our community. After all is said and done, the tampayers who voted Tuesday, really decided what they wanted, beyond a shadow of a doubt. FOR THE PRESENT WE WILL HAVE TO WORK WITH EXISTING FACILITIES.

Special recognition is due our very capable school board members, they all were dedicated to their job by knowing our school system needs - and working in harmony for Those on the board, who were truly dedicated to progress were: J.D. McCullouch, superintendent of education; Robert Hamilton, school board president, Paul Henley, secretary. Bill Breland, Frank R. Wheat, Howard Adams, and Sam Favre. school attorney. Every teacher within the school system also deserves recognition for a well done job.

These men took the leadership; in presenting to the public, the needs of our school system.

GUEST EDITORIAL

DO WE REALLY WANT BETTER ROADS?

We case the legislators of Mississippi for failure to pass a highway construction program. Why? Because we don't want to talk about ourselves-we'd rather pass the buck to the most convenient scapegoat, which happens to be the state legislature.

In the last 30 years, the legislature has increased the load limit on our highways from 30,000 pounds to 74,000 pounds, as if our highways were getting thicker all the time.

The legislature has increased the number of miles in our state highway system from 4,000 miles to 10,000 miles. The legislature has passed hills so that thousands of miles of secondary and farm-to-market roads have been improved

Why? Because that's what the people wanted. The legislators are very sensitive to the wishes of the voters, and few of them vote against the desires of their constituents. And people have generally been pretty apathetic about years after World War II, Mississippi was far ahead of the surrounding states in the matter of roads, and this generated a complacency which carried over for many years. Even with all the clamor in the last few years about improving our primary highways, public concern has not reached a very high point as shown by the recent failure of the highway bond limit amendment to pass. Legislators are either going to have to go ahead and pass a road bill on their own, or clse present a multiple choice ballot to the public, with the program getting a plurailty being the one to be adopted. The last proposal is so faristched as to be facetious.

So it boils down to this: legislators are going to have to do what's right for the state and hope for the best at the polls next election, if we are to have better highways. LELAND PROGRESS

Luncheon

Considering the fact that the two men have been on the opposite sides of the political fence all their lives, President Johnson and President-elect Nixon got along surprisingly well during last week's historic limcheon.

Historic

There has been no other case in half a century when a President and a President-elect have sat down together and discussed their mutual problems so carefully and in such a friendly atmosphere.

No love was lost between President Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower when the latter took over in 1953. They did not confer. In fact Eisenhower would not even get out of his car when he drove up to the White House to escort President Truman to the Capitol for the inaugural ceremony.

There was one conference between Herbert Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt in 1932 after Hoove r was defeated. But the two were not at all cordial and the meeting was unproductive. When Mr. Hoover took over from Calvin Coolidge in 1929 the problems of the United States seemed relatively easy, and there were no important consultations. Hoover had served as Secretary of Commerce in Coolidge's cabinet, though there was personal friction between the two toward the end.

Earlier in 1921, when Warren Harding took over after eight years of Woodrow Wilson's administration, there was no consultation whatsoever. Wilson had suffered a stroke and the only conversation between the two men was when they drove behind a team of horses from the White House to the Capitol.

When Harry Truman took over from Roosevelt in 1945. it was after his tragic death at Warm Springs, and of course there had been no opportunity to consult. Likewise with Lyn don Johnson when he assumed office after the death of President Kennedy in Dallas.

"I had two minutes to get ready for this job," the President told members of his staff. "Mr. Nixon has from Novem-

NOTES FROM PEARLINGTON by BRENDA ANDERSON 533-7974

Beautiful holiday decorations are going up all ovor Pearlington. Christmas trees of all shapes and sizes are beginning to peep through windows, and children are already beginning to ask how much longer it will be until the jolly 'ole' fat man comes.

If you're out driving at night, ride by the Methodist Church and see the Nativity scene. The home of the C.J. Delacroin is also a treat that you'll not want to miss.

Charles B. Murphy school will close for the holidays on Friday, December 20, and will resume classes on Monday, January 6.

New officers of the Pearlington P-TA are: President, Mrs. Mittle Breland; first vice president, Mrs. Nettle Giles: second vice president, Mrs. Shirley Peterson; secretary, Mrs. Brenda Anderson; treasurer, Mr. Orrie Holden.

Be listening for the new chimes of the First Southern Baptist Church this Sunday.

The room mothers of the P-TA met Tuesday night in the Hold Christmas school cafeteria to discuss plas for this year's Christmas parties.

> Mr. and Mrs. Joe Nettles and family were called to Pensacola, Florida last week where his daughter was to undergo an emergency operation. Donna was reported to be getting along fine.

The poem this week is by Helen Steiner Rice -

Give Lavishly! Live Abundantly! The more you give, the more you get - The more you laugh, the less you fret - The more you do unselfishly, The more you live abundantly. . . The more of everything you share, The more you'll always have to spare - The more you love, the more you'll find that life is good and friends are kind. . . drinking. While most alcoholics in the Detention Home are of the hopeless, "rock bottom" variety, there are a few who can be helped by referral to Mr. Brisolara's agency, says Captain Theard.

Repeated drunkenness accounts for a large number of the Detention Home's cases, some being individuals Captain Theard recalls locking up for chronic drunkenness twenty years ago. Some of these, says the Captain, have become completely institutionalized, preferring jail to freedom, and willing to go to any lengths in order to be returned to the fail.

Among the Captain's inmates have been "Charlie The Mole", a one-time manager of a large New Orleans shoe store who set up housekeeping beneath the Detention Home; a reputable physician from another state who drank through choice, rather than addiction, to ease the pain of grief, and who succeeded, as he wished, in drinking himself to death; "Francis", the bruiser who couldn't defend himself against a child on the streets, but who, once inside the sanctuary of the fall, could bring the most violent fellowprisioner under control with greatest of ease; and "Scooter", the legless alkie who traveled by means of a skate board, and who unhesitatingly purchased wine with donations he had received for new skates for his board.

Skid Row alcoholics, however, actually account for less than five percent of the nation's alcoholico, says Mr. Brisolara, who opened the seminar by speaking on "A Community Combines Plans and Achien''. offectively illustrating his discussion by means of slides.

"Bocause the alcoholic was a person long before he was an alcoholic, any successful effort to cope with his problems must be based on the premise that he is a tri-structured being composed of BODY, MIND, and stated Brisolara. The Team Approach also Acutely ill and intoxicated alcoholics, non-acutely intoxicated alcoholics, sober alcoholics, and families of alcoholics, This naturally requires a multitude of resources, but is vital if the rebuilding of the entire man is to be successful--that is, that all of the avenues of normal tension release heretofore met by alcohol will be in good functioning order: social life. hobbies, church activities. hopes, goals, finances, employment, and family. Brisolara continued by saying that family adjustment alone presents a herculean task, where oftentimes the non-alcoholic is in need of as much, if not more therapy than the alcoholic. Referral sources require the combined efforts of doctors; hospitals; psychiatrists; social workers; spiritual conselors; half-way houses; welfare, family counseling, and legal aid agencies; Alcoholics Anonymous, Al-Anon, and others.

"Knowing what alcoholism is, is one thing:

Knowing what is needed to help the alcoholic is another: Understanding the alcoholic is something else;

Desire and eagerness to rehabilitate the alcoholic is most commendable;

But creating the climate for treatment, and being prepared with a comprehensive plan of referral capable of handling every eventuality is what really counts, is it not?" Treatment, continued Brisolara, must commence with the alcoholic's first identification--"his humanity, or membership in the human race." "Alcoholics are like everyone else, except where their drinking is concerned. "Everyone else can control his drinking; the alcoholic cannot. He is, in fact, powerless to do so, by virtue of some strange reaction within him over which he has no control.'

Though there is no chemical means presently known of determining whether or not a person is or will become alcoholic, it has been observed microscope. to Brisolara, that a change does occur in the cells of an alcoholic when alcohol is introduced into the body, whereas there is no change in the cells of a non-alcoholic under the same conditions.

Although problem drinkers are divided into two major categories, the loss of control in his drinking is the mark of the alcoholic, no matter when it occurs, or how the other areas of his life (job, home, family, civic interest, etc.) are functioning. At this point, the person is, in the fullest meaning of the word, an alcoholic. His only hope and desire is alcohol, and from this point on, all of the wholesome ambitions which once permeatod his life become more and moro obscure, and are finally oradicated as his illness progresses.

In the first grouping is the problem drinker or primary alcoholic. He seems to be born with an inability to tolerate alcohol in his system, for he finds himself unable to control his drinking from the very start of his drinking career. The secondary type does not find himcolf in trouble, usually, until after five, ten, or perhaps as much as twenty years of drinking. In both cases, however, ment, a comprehensive Team the victim is usually the last to believe and accept his true illness, and then not until all munity are vital. Education is his avenues of normal living the first requirement in order and tension release become

It has been found the most alcoholdes are too sick men-tally spiritually and phy-sicially, for self-avaluation, and instant of seeking help they will sevelop a system of ra-tionalization or aibts to deny their drinking problem. Blackouts (loss of memory)

are among the early signals of impending danger, stresses Brisdiara, and may occur on as little as one drink, and last for varying periods, sometimes only a few minutes, sometimes for days or weeks. As weekends develop into routine drinking days, and as the alcoholic's drinking habits increase, his pattern of drinking changes also. In this stage, all activities are planned around alcohol (consciously, as well as unconsciously). By now, the drinkprovides referral sources for: er is gulping his liquor, rather than drinking it; outside social activities lessen until they cease entirely. Presently, friends, even drinking companions, are lost, as isperhaps the alcoholic's job, as a result of constant binges and ensuing anti-social behavior. victim has long been hiding his supply (sometimes even from himself), and he lives with countless anxieties, isolates himself from his family, and experiences minor withdrawal daily, often seeking medical help for a host of symptoms other than alcholism. Financreasing expenses with his drinking problem may now be experienced, and the victim is harboring increasing and unreasonable resentments against everything and everybody who happens to cross his path. Finally, work is missed for hours, days, or even weeks, until he eventually arrives on the job intoxicated. Alcohol is by now the only known escape for tension; he must drink; otherwise. he will go insane or commit suicide. Due to a weakened condition as a result of drinking, the alcoholic is now susceptible to a host of other physical problems, including pneumonia, T. B., peptic ulcers, diabetes, high blood pressure, and is probably suffering with cirrhosis of the liver. If it has not come before, the collapse of the alibi system must come now, for only two alternatives remain open: to drink until total and permanent insanity (better known as "wet brain") or death ensue, or to accept the fact that he is an alcoholic, is sick, and be willing to accept treatment

Guest speaker at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, December 12, will be Rev. Wade Hopkins. Director of Baptist Rescue Mission in New Orleans, and a member the Committee's Clergy Committe. His topic will be Personality Traits of the Alcoholic." At 9:00 p.m., Ashton Brisolara will speak on "Disease Concept of Alcoholism."

The public is invited. Plans for future session include representatives from Police Department of Bay Louis and the Hancock County Sheriff's office, and possibly Harrison County law enforcement officials, on Jan-

Vavoland Baptists Emphasizo Missions

First Baptist Church, Wave-land, is emphasizing Southern Baptist foreign missions during December with special ob-servances of the Week of Prayor for Foreign Missions and churchwide participation in the Lottie Moon Christmas offer-

The church has a goal of $450,00 as its part in the overall goal of $15,500,000 for the entire Southern Baptist Convention. Funds collected in the Lottie Moon offering will be used only for mission needs overseas. The offering is namod for a nineteenth century Baptist missionary to China.

Sponsoring the mission om-phasis is the church's missionary education organiza-tions, Woman's Missionary Union and Brotherhood, Mrs. Milo Blackstock is WMU director and L.E.Gibbons is Brotherhood director at the church.

Part of the special observances was the Week of Prayer for Foreign Missions, which was held Dec. 1-8. During that week, all age-group organizations gave emphasis to the offering in their regularly scheduled meetings. Also, the WMS Groups plan to meet at the church each day for a period of inspirational mission study and special prayer for foreign missions and the offering.

BIG JOHN DUCHKAR AND LAMAR-LANE SALESMAN JOHN GALLAGHER STAND BY DUCHKAR'S NEW CHEVROLET.

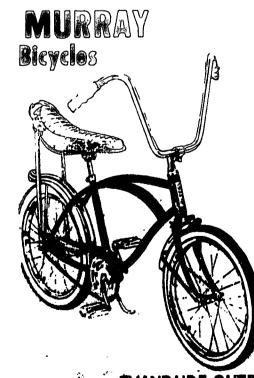

I live in Waveland and have been a pipe line construction project manager for the past 16 years. I bought a new truck from John Gallagner at Lamar-Lama Chevrolet and feel that I was treated fairly. I needed a dependable car for my family and went directly to the people I feel that I can trust. We know John Gallagher personally and he helped us make our selection. We highly recommend him and Lamar-Lane Chevrolet to anyone who is in the marbet for a new car or truck.

Legal Secretaries To Award Scholarship

An annual undertaking of the Harrison & Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries Association is the presentation of a Scholarship Award to some deserving young girl from one of the schools in either Harrison or Hancock County, This Scholership is based upon merit, ability and need, and senior girls from all high schools in the area, or enrolled in a school of advanced education are eligible to compete for this award, which amounts to $400.

Certain rules and regulations prepared by the National Association of Legal Secretaries must be followed in order to qualify as a nominee for this award. Those rules and regula-un and a $0,000 reward to being offered for information that will solve the mystery of the fate of Elizabeth ("Liz") Lurens Ernstein, 15, of Redlands, Calis

Elizabeth, daughter of Norman and Ruth Ernstein, vanished without a trace on March 18, 1968, on her usual two-mile walk home from school. At that time she was five feet, five inches tall, weighed 105 pounds, and had brown hair and brown eves. She was dressed in a blue dress with white flowers, tennis shoes, and a 3/4-length reversible coat (one side dark green corduroy and the other a tan raincoat material). Around her neck she wore a small gold chain with a pendant gold and blue star, and carried a blue note book and a red algebra book. She in known to have had only 25¢ with her on her departure for school that day.

Though every lead, no matter how faint, has been followed by Elizabeth's parents and Cali-Tornia law enforcement authorities, no clues have been uncovered in the eight months since her disappearance, "Wo will not rest until we know," avow the parents. The father is a chemical engineer at Lockheed in Redlands, and his wife a psychiatric social worker. The couple are the parents of tions, together with application forms will be delivered to schools in the area during the of December 9th, and must be returned to the Scholarship Chairman by January 10th.

This is the fourth year the Legal Secretaries have spongored this Scholarship.

Floundering Season Still Under Way

By Doc Ellion

Floundaring this season has been at its best all summer. Believe it or not flounders can be speared all during the winter months in bayous and rivers along the banks on low tides in shallow water.

One of our best floundering spots is in upper Campbell's Bayou near the L&N R.R. bridge over Pearl River and along the river banks proper.

The flounder pictured above was caught by Eddie Poyadou in a cast net recently off the Highway Bridge. It weighed six and one-half pounds. Flounders are being caught daily on hook and line most anywhere and by trolling. For those who don't know flounders are a flat fish that lay on the bottom. Both eyes are on the same side, although on both sides when average weight of a flounder is around three pounds, but are reported to reach a weight of around 30 pounds.
